Bradley Arant Boulton Cummings Partner Joycelyn A. Stevenson Named to Nashville Business Journal's "Forty Under 40" List for 2011

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (January 28, 2011) – Bradley Arant Boulton Cummings LLP is pleased to announce that partner Joycelyn A. Stevenson has been named to this year's Nashville Business Journal "Forty Under 40" list. This annual award recognizes young Nashville professionals making a difference in their companies and the community. This year's winners will be honored at a luncheon on Thursday, March 10 and profiled in a special issue of the Nashville Business Journal on March 11.

"We congratulate Joycelyn on this significant honor and career milestone," said Firm Chairman Beau Grenier. "This recognition confirms what we already know about Joycelyn's dedication to the legal profession and to the community. She is an asset to this firm and we are proud to have her as part of our team."

Stevenson focuses a substantial part of her practice on labor and employment law, and has extensive experience representing large and small companies in commercial litigation matters. She also regularly defends hospitals, physician practices and other health care organizations in general and employment litigation matters. Stevenson regularly counsels clients on issues involving race, sex and age discrimination and labor relations, as well as lawsuits brought under a variety of federal statutes, including the ADEA, ADA, Title VII, FMLA and FLSA. She advises on daily workplace issues involving equal employment opportunity and leave laws and garnishment and wage payment issues, and also prepares responses to charges of discrimination filed with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and state human rights commissions. Stevenson holds a J.D. from Vanderbilt University Law School and a B.A. (magna cum laude) from Howard University.
